What inspires you?

What makes you get out of bed in the morning? What sets your passion alight and lights up your heart? What are your dreams?

If nothing comes to mind, when did you stop experiencing life and start living it? When did the magic become mediocre?

If you have ever watched a group of kids playing you can see the joy and excitement on their face as they explore their environment, testing, striving and achieving their desires. They create a game from a single idea, and they believe completely in the success of that idea.

As we become adults we lose this ability to wonder and explore, we become limited by our thoughts, beliefs and perceptions and often let others play a role in the dissolution of our dreams.

We grow up. We stop playing. We get serious. We decide somewhere along the way that we can't have it all, that we can't expect magnificence and that life is meant to be tough. We lose hope.

It doesn't have to be this way.

Every day the media reminds us of how fragile our existence is, of how easily tomorrow may not come.

Therefore, we must take time out each day to appreciate all that we have, to spend time with those we love and to find our inspiration and start creating our dreams.

Life coaching can help you find your inspiration, define your dreams and set realistic goals to create change to make those dreams a reality.

Start life coaching with Natalie today and start creating your magical life.
